Vehicle routing in containers pickup up and delivery processes

The routing problems studied here arise in ISO-container distribution and collecting processes, in regions which are oriented to container sea ports or inland terminals.

Optimal incentives and asymmetric distribution of information

The problem of designing optimal incentive schemes arises if information is asymmetrically distributed among individuals. The existence and the welfare properties of optimal incentive schemes are discussed for cases where the information asymmetry refers either to the quality of a product or to the behaviour of an individual.
